

F.D.R. REFUSES TO COMMENT ON EUROPEAN ACTS

Won't Even Talk "Off the Record" On Situation Abroad

RETURNS TODAY TO WASHINGTON

Confers With Kennedy; May Talk With Secretary Hull Tomorrow

(By Associated Press) HYDE PARK, Feb. 23.—President Roosevelt, still silent on the European situation after a conference with his new ambassador to Great Britain, will return to Washington tonight.

Ending a five-day stay at his boyhood home, he planned to board a special train late in the afternoon for a daylight trip down the Hudson.

May Confer With High While no engagements have been made for him at the White House, he may see Secretary Hull tomorrow to go over the latest European diplomatic happenings upon which he declined to comment at a press conference yesterday afternoon.

Joseph P. Kennedy, who sails today to take over his new ambassadorial assignment at London, received his final instructions at a luncheon conference at the Roosevelt home just before the press interview. He stood beside the chief executive as reporters pressed questions after question about events abroad, only to receive a "no comment" reply.

No "Off the Record" Talk So determined was the President to maintain silence he even refused to talk off the record as he is accustomed to doing at times.

The President said he had set no dates for his conference on the railroad situation and his message to congress on monopolies.

He reiterated that new taxes would have to be levied if the farm administration decided to make subsidy payments to farmers to attain "parity" prices under the 1938 agricultural adjustment act.

Bandits Thwarted By Messenger Boy

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—A 22-year-old telegraph messenger who curse two fleeing bandits suspects in his bicycle despite threats of death was credited today with their capture.

Robert Bottcher saw three men enter an automobile at a Brooklyn spot and slugged and robbed the driver, John Gallagher, 37.

Bottcher followed the car until the men abandoned it, and then pursued two of them as they fled together on foot.

"Beat it, kid, or we'll blow your head off," Bottcher said one of the men told him as he rode up.

The messenger continued to follow them until he sighted two policemen, who captured the suspects, one of whom carried a revolver.

MASONIC "DADS" DINE WITH SONS

Hear Address On Washington by Judge George H. Gessner

Two hundred boys and their dads attended the second annual father and son banquet, sponsored by Perry lodge No. 185 and Salem City lodge No. 698, in the Masonic temple Tuesday night.

Following dinner, served by members of the Order of Eastern Star, a program of musical entertainment and a talk by Common Pleas Judge George H. Gessner of Youngstown were enjoyed.

The banquet room was adorned in red, white and blue decorations in observance of Washington's birthday.

Judge Gessner, in his address, recalled George Washington's simple manner of living, citing it as a pattern for the boys of today. His talk was interspersed with humor.

The speaker recommended to the boys the first president's three rules of living: Know when to be quiet, when to be merry and how much to eat.

Ira Mellinger of Leontina spoke briefly. Arrangements for the affair were in charge of committees headed by Frank West of Perry lodge and James H. Giffin of Salem City lodge.

The entertainment included a vocal solo by John Paul Olloman, accompanied by Homer Taylor; an instrumental trio; an accordionist; tap dances by a trio from the Bettie Lee studio, composed of Barbara Butler, Joanne Wise and Betty Cosgrove, and a clarinet solo by Charles Wentz, accompanied by Harold Hoprich.

GOSHEN SCHOOL GIRL IS BURNED BY OIL FLAMES

Miss Margaret Burton, 16, In Hospital; Condition Serious

KINDLING FIRE IN KITCHEN STOVE

Accident Occurs at Grandparents' Home On Goshen Rd.

The school bus stopped this morning on the Goshen rd., to take Margaret Arlene Burton, 16, to her classes, but Margaret wasn't waiting beside the road as she usually is. At Goshen Township High school near Damascus, the school bus ended its morning trip and the crowd of boys and girls piled out, laughing and talking and thinking, possibly, of the end of the school term, not so far away.

Soon, however, the smiles left their faces when school authorities announced that Margaret, a junior in the High school, had been seriously burned when she hurried about at her grandmother's home, north of Salem, attempting to get breakfast before the bus arrived.

Margaret, hospital attendants report, attempted to kindle a fire in the cook stove by pouring on kerosene.

An explosion followed and the girl's night clothes were sprayed with the burning liquid.

Margaret, whose mother is dead, has been living with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Burton, since her father, Rupert Burton, is away frequently while working for the Pennsylvania railroad.

The grandparents finally succeeded in smothering the flames and rushed the girl in an ambulance to Salem City hospital.

Admitted at 8:25 a. m., she was found to have suffered burns over her entire body. "She is burned very badly," nurses said.

GEN. PERSHING SERIOUSLY ILL

Spends Restless Night After Second Relapse In 12 Hours

(By Associated Press) TUCSON, Ariz., Feb. 23.—A rheumatic ailment, a weakened heart and old age today threatened the life of Gen. John J. Pershing, 77, veteran campaigner and only living commander of a principal World war army.

Pershing slept restlessly last night following his second relapse in 12 hours. Previously he had been reported improving.

Lieut. Col. S. U. Marietta, army cardiac specialist summoned here from Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., and the general's sister, Miss Mae Pershing, maintained a vigil throughout the night.

His only son, Warren, New York investment broker, was scheduled to arrive by plane tomorrow from Palm Beach, Fla.

Neither Colonel Marietta nor Pershing's physician, Dr. Roland Davison, would comment on the general's condition after they issued a statement explaining they were "not entirely satisfied with his heart."

"We are still definitely optimistic regarding the probability of recovery," they said in the statement, issued late last night.

Pershing is one of only six men

Fire Prevention Veteran To Address Salem Groups

Chicagoan To Speak Here Tuesday In Connection With Survey and Educational Campaign

Harry K. Rogers, chief engineer of the fire prevention department of the Western Actuarial bureau, Chicago, will make the principal address at a public luncheon meeting next Tuesday noon at the Memorial building.

This is to be one of the features of the program arranged in connection with the fire prevention survey and educational campaign to be conducted in Salem that day by the Fire Prevention association of Ohio.

The luncheon meeting is being sponsored by the Salem Business bureau with the cooperation of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs, other service clubs, city officials and the insurance agents of the city.

Gene Young, chairman of the local committee, will preside at the meeting and Mayor George R. Harroff will welcome the visiting fire prevention inspectors and other guests.

Rogers has an interesting as well as informative message. His practical knowledge of fire safety and fire prevention, acquired during his years of service with fire departments in the central west, enhances the value of his talk. His recounting of scenes he has witnessed and incidents in which he has participated is said to thrill his audience.

Eden Forces Continue Fight On Chamberlain; Ickes Plea Asks Anglo-American Unity

ICKES ASSAILS TWO ARCH FOES

Hits Communism, Fascism In Widely Broadcast Talk

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes called on the democracies of the world yesterday to repulse internal Fascism and Communism.

His remarks were contained in an address prepared for delivery by invitation over the network of the British Broadcasting corporation. He was also heard in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, and the Union of South Africa.

The address inaugurated a series of British broadcasts entitled "America Speaks." The secretary said he spoke as an individual, not as a representative of the United States or the President.

Fascists Drawing Closer "Certainly," Ickes said, "with the Fascist countries of the world drawing closer and closer together in an ominous and bodeful phalanx, it behooves America and all other democratic nations to prove that under a democratic form of government the highest political liberty as well as the greatest economic security will be provided."

"The community of interest that exists between Britain and America, as well as between other peoples who believe in democracy," he said, "should be strengthened."

"It is a fitting occasion to reaffirm our determination that we will continue to build our civilization on the firm foundations of the American Constitution, which, in common with the British constitution, has its roots deep in the Magna Charta."

"Here in the United States we realize that the democratic principle is having to fight to maintain itself as it has not had to fight since it first became established."

"In all parts of the world it is beset by two fanatical foes, which have the will to conquer at all costs. Democracy can not live side by side in the same country with either Fascism or Communism. Democracy is the very antithesis of both of these objectionable systems of governments."

ROBBER SLUGS LIVERPOOL MAN

The burglar hid behind a counter when Heddleston unexpectedly entered the store to check up the day's receipts.

CHAMBERLAIN—PAGE 1 By DEWITT MACKENZIE, Associated Press Foreign Affairs Writer.

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—There is no earthly way of arriving now at a correct summary on the tangled elements of the Fascist-Democratic conflict that finally have found public expression in the British cabinet crisis and plunged three-quarters of the continent into a fresh fit of nerves.

Still, there are things which stand out from the facts that underlie the rather theatrical resignation of England's youthful and idealistic foreign minister, Anthony Eden—the political Sir Galahad of Europe who wouldn't barter his conscience to Dictators Hitler and Mussolini.

Among the things which one can see clearly, though not evaluate as yet, are these:

Item—Idealism is a drug on the market and no longer a good buy.

Item—Anthony Eden achieved great distinction at home and abroad because of his high ideals. However, it may be true that an uncompromising and at times professed attitude he laid himself open to the charge of being unsuited to the negotiations of a controversial nature.

Item—The British program of compromising with the dictators in the interest of general peace comes from one of the world's keenest minds—that of Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain.

He plans, for example, to make an about face and recognize Mussolini's conquest of Ethiopia. Those of the "practical" school say: "Whether you like it or not, Mussolini has annexed Ethiopia."

Chamberlain says his program will ensure peace for a generation; Eden says it is sacrificing principle and piling up anguish for the dictators in future.

Item—There is every indication that in revising his foreign policy England has discarded any thought of helping protect the independence of the little nations of central and eastern Europe.

Item—The Anglo-French affiliation, which has been taking the side of democracy against the Fascist bloc, has been weakened for practical purposes, though it is impossible to say how much.

France feels herself abandoned to the Berlin-Rome axis, despite Chamberlain's assurances of continued friendship. France wants more than friendship—she wants practical support.

Item—Chamberlain not only is about to negotiate with Italy but contemplates an amicable adjustment of Germany's demand for colonies. The dictators will have to pay for what they get from Chamberlain.

Item—There is this to be said in favor of Chamberlain's policy: The splitting up of four major powers into two blocs—Germany and Italy versus France and England; Fascists versus democracies—has been a danger to the peace of Europe.

Delbos to Follow Friend Eden?

Yvon Delbos and Anthony Eden

On the heels of a British crisis that caused resignation of Foreign Minister Anthony Eden, comes report of a possible cabinet shake-up in France, where Foreign Minister Yvon Delbos, friend of Eden, is in danger of losing his job. Unless French diplomacy is readjusted quickly, observers said, Delbos will be forced out. Eden and Delbos are shown in a recent picture taken at a League of Nations council meeting in Geneva.

MINISTER WINS VOTE IN HOUSE

Prepares to Begin Friendship Talks With Fascists

(By Associated Press) LONDON, Feb. 23.—British government today opposition gathered strength for continued attacks against the nation's new foreign policy of European appeasement outside the League of Nations.

As Prime Minister Chamberlain prepared to start British-Italian friendship talks, organizations representing the opposition Labor party, trade unions and League of Nations Peace associations arranged further demonstrations like that in the house of commons yesterday.

Opposition Backs Eden The opposition backed the idealism of Anthony Eden, who resigned the foreign secretaryship rather than pursue Italian friendship talks under circumstances which he held would indicate Britain was yielding to pressure from the Fascist Premier Mussolini.

Chamberlain, who held it his duty to seek peace with Mussolini and Germany's Hitler and avoid "the frightful question" of war, was reassured in his policy of practical dealings by a 330 to 168 vote of confidence from the house of commons.

The Conservative party premier planned to confer tomorrow with Viscount Halifax, acting as temporary foreign secretary, and with the Earl of Perth, British ambassador to Rome, who was called back to London for instructions on the Italian talks.

Lord Perth was expected to return to Rome and to open negotiations with the Italian foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano.

Will Explain Position Eden's friends said he would explain fully his position on Friday before his Warwickshire constituents.

Premier Chamberlain, in parliament yesterday, rejected as a "sham" the League of Nations idea of fighting aggression by force.

His statement "I still have faith the league may be reconstituted," raised the question whether a new conception of the league might emerge from the Italian-British agreement.

Chamberlain warned, "We must not try to delude ourselves, and

Venire for Rogers Murder Hearing To Be Drawn Tomorrow

LISBON, Feb. 23.—Manacled and closely guarded by deputy sheriffs, Burl Rogers of East Liverpool, indicted for first degree murder in the shooting two years ago of Clarence Dickey, will be brought to the court house tomorrow while a special venire of 75 names is drawn from the city wheel.

From the special venire a jury later will be chosen to try Rogers for slaying the East Liverpool milkman on Dec. 25, 1935. The trial date also will be designated at this time following a conference between county authorities and counsel for the defense.

Rogers, allegedly one of three men who participated in the hold-up and subsequent shooting, was the object of a 21-month search by officers. Nabbed last Thursday afternoon when he returned to East Liverpool, Rogers said he had been in 30 states since he escaped from the county's 99 year old jail May 3, 1936.

The prisoner sawed through the bars of his cell on the second floor of the jail, lunged through a window and jumped from the top of a small porch surrounding the entrance. Eluding a police dragnet Rogers made his way south.

Attorneys for Rogers intimated today they may ask that their client be given a trial in another county. "There is too much prejudice in this county," they said.

THEY'RE AT IT AGAIN

When the British muddle through, look out for flying glass. Anything can happen.

The British are muddling through the diplomatic crisis caused by the German government's latest demonstration that it is ready to go the whole hog in its drive for "equality" in Europe.

That is, British politicians are muddling—and hoping they will come out right side up, with at least an apparent majority of their constituents behind them. They are gambling on a change in British foreign policy.

The new direction they have taken is tangent to that which has been followed since the World war. Instead of planning on collective security in terms of the formula of the League of Nations, they evidently are thinking of British safety now in terms of a closer understanding with Germany, which has denied the jurisdiction of the league over its affairs.

This leaves France holding the bag for the League of Nations. At the same time it seems to relieve Britain from holding the bag for France. An incidental result is to relieve Mr. Anthony Eden from holding the bag for anyone. His resignation as foreign minister is the outward sign of Britain's internal difference of opinion; he dealt with the problems of his office in a manner which could not be construed as friendly to Germany. His successor will switch that attitude, in all probability.

The temptation to jump at conclusions—to think ahead of the floundering British politicians and to predict the consequences of what they are doing—is strong. But it should be resisted.

Probably, there will be a shift in the European balance of power which will relieve some of the tension in Germany. Probably, Great Britain will emerge, if not allied with Germany, at least not diplomatically opposed to Germany—a trend, incidentally, the start of which can be traced to the brief reign of King Edward VIII. Probably, the British are on the verge of making another of the famous compromises which have enabled them to remain so long at the top of the heap.

Probably, a great many preconceptions, including some in the United States, will have to be dropped into the wastebasket. Therefore, opinions based on those preconceptions are about as useful as a society dame's last year's chapeau.

The British are muddling through. The Germans, in their customary tactless manner, are ploughing through. For the time being it's their show. Toes will be crushed, ribs cracked and feelings hurt. But out of it all, unless someone tips over a powder keg into the fire, may come a compromise which will give Europe another breathing spell.

ONE MORE REASON

They were small boys, waiting to cross a spotlight intersection on their way to school. They might have been brothers. A mother, perhaps two mothers, would be wondering whether they were being careful about crossing the street.

One of them—with a bright splash of egg yolk on his chin—started across the street against the traffic signal. He was grabbed by the coat tail. The other one, pulling him back to the curb, said: "Hey, it ain't safe to cross till the light changes."

"Yeh, but everybody else's going across," the first one said, pointing to three adults standing in the middle of the street, waiting to dash for the opposite curb.

That makes just one more reason why it's worthwhile to wait a few seconds for the light before crossing the street—there may be a child watching.

GOODWILL

Aware in a general way of international competition for South American goodwill (diplomacy's word for the desire to do business), Americans hope the flight of United States bombing planes to Buenos Aires will do the job.

The Germans have been building goodwill in South America with the Graf Zeppelin. Italians have been doing it with bombers. The British do it with visits by princes of the royal family. The Japanese do it with merchandise produced by cheap labor. All of them do it more or less with radio programs directed to the South American ear.

While this isn't exactly the kind of goodwill declared by herald angels, most of it is being spread by air, and for that reason South Americans may be able to detect in it a certain quality of authenticity not otherwise in evidence.

THE STARS SAY:

For Thursday, February 24

This should be a day of probable excitement or commotion, with sudden and surprising adventures in both business and intimate affairs, according to the lunar and mutual aspects. It is quite probable that the wholly unforeseen may be precipitated in romantic affairs, with travel and change and much happiness and enjoyment.

If This Is Your Birthday.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of much pleasurable excitement, with sudden change, travel or romantic adventure.

A child born on this day may have a nature difficult to understand, owing to many contradictory traits. It may be stable and profound but may be carried away by urges for change, travel, romance and strange associations. It may have a life of fluctuating fortunes and adventures.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

(EDITOR'S NOTE: The following "New York Day by Day" column, by Oscar Odd McIntyre, was prepared by the famous New York writer and distributed prior to his death.)

NEW YORK, Feb. 23—Perhaps the most illustrious proponent of the ideal bachelor life in New York is Howard Sturges, who is, as a matter of fact, an official resident of Providence, R. I. But he circulates chiefly in Manhattan and among what is called the International Set.

Tall, strikingly dour, he has devoted much of his time to deluxe entertaining, both here and abroad. And in a day when many economic royalists are down to their last pantryman, he continues to go right on whooping it up as though nothing had happened to the world.

This winter, for instance, he decided to give a ball for the first cabin crowd to honor his favorite niece in native Providence. He invited the pick of his Gotham friends, but the engraved invitations were merely the signal gun for his bombardment of hospitality.

He had a special train of coaches to transport them to and from the Rhode Island capital. And furthermore he put up his guests in individual suites with a hand picked corps of expertly trained servants to anticipate every want.

Louis Bromfield, the young Mansfield, O. novelist, touched off the Maharajah vogue that now seems to afflict so many seeking celebrity. Bromfield left his Paris home a couple of years ago and spent a hunting season with one of the Indian potentates and later brought his Nibs to Paree for swings around the mulberry bush. From these contacts Bromfield salvaged material for his recent widely sold book, "The Rains Came." Now comes word from the Far East that the ageless Lady Mendel, formerly Elsie De Wolfe, has departed with a pile of blond luggage for a visit to 8-count 'em 8—Maharajahs. She has as her companion the forgotten wife of Somerset Maugham.

Earle McHugh, a magazine advertising poobah, has a rather disconcerting contraption for visitors to his office. Right in the middle of his desk is an eight ball mounted on a gold standard. When one sits across the desk to talk to him there is no certainty which one is behind the ball. He believes it is better for both to start from scratch and then work out of the dilemma.

Adela Rogers St. John's attractive daughter Elaine has proved a proverbial chip off the old block. The other day she hawked her first story to Liberty. Her mother sold her first fiction twenty years ago to the Green Book. Ray Long, as he did so many, encouraged her to give story telling a whirl. Incidentally, Adela, with all the fervor which has characterized her career, recently became interested in farming and took on an acreage in Jersey, where she now spends all time away from the typewriter, developing.

Irvin S. Cobb has begun the autobiography for which many have been waiting. It is called tentatively "Mostly About Myself," and magazine editors angled for it for ten years. Cobb's career is especially interesting to the newspaper crowd because he insists he is now and always has been a reporter. His journalistic ventures encompass every phase of newspaperdom—from "the" reporter on a Paducah daily to an ace correspondent during the world war. His most notable achievement, perhaps, was covering the Thaw trial entirely with pencil, the copy being rushed to the Evening World by a fleet of office boys. He has been an intimate of almost every great figure of the past two decades. And as Bob Davis once said of him: "His hat fits him still."

Musing: I do not think anything makes a fellow feel such a useless member of society as to try out skating after a lapse of years. Venturing forth timidly in rabbit strokes while virile young bloods swoop by in long graceful glides.

EAR CANALS
DR. MENIERE, a French physician, first described a disorder now known as "Meniere's disease." Since his announcement in 1861, investigation has revealed about it much that was unknown to the discoverer. It is probable that Dr. Meniere were he to come to life, would be bewildered by the present-day conception of the disease.

A victim of this disorder complains of continuous noises in the ear. The trouble may be accompanied by difficulty in hearing. Dizziness, unsteady gait, and often an inability to remain in an upright position for any length of time, are conspicuous symptoms.

Since dizziness is the really outstanding sign, this disorder is often mistaken for some other condition. Likewise, this symptom may cause some other ailment to be erroneously accepted as Meniere's disease. It is well to bear in mind that dizziness, in and of itself, is only a symptom. It may be the result of one of many disturbances.

Explains Canals

In Meniere's disease the dizziness is due to an alteration in the functioning of the "semi-circular canals." Let me tell you about these canals:

They are found in the bony structure of the skull and are really a part of the internal ear. The canals contain a thin fluid which moves as the head moves in assuming its various positions.

They are delicately constructed and arranged in such a manner that each of the three canals lies in a different plane. They act like a spirit level and give the brain the position of the body. As a result of this arrangement, definite sensations of balance are excited. If this mechanical device is impaired or destroyed, the victim loses his sense of balance and is sure to complain of vertigo or dizziness.

Merely to suffer from dizziness is no reason to assume that Meniere's disease has been acquired. As a matter of fact, this symptom is frequently associated with chronic catarrh of the ear, high blood pressure, heart disease, anemia, hardness of the arteries and other disturbances. No matter what its cause, it is a symptom that should never be neglected. Dizziness always demands medical attention.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—

Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go

The liver should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. Your whole system is poisoned and you feel sour, sunk and the world looks punk.

A mere bowel movement doesn't get at the cause. It takes those good, old Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." Harmless, gentle, yet amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. 25c. Stubbornly refuse anything else.

"Women In Love" by May Christie

CHAPTER XIV
It was half past five on a Friday afternoon, and pouring with rain. Bernice Delafield, Ann's older sister, was giving a big cocktail party at "The Laughing Pig"—a hospital benefit—and Ann had promised to drop in.

She had changed from the prim black uniform of the salesforce into an ultra smart little claret suit. A French label in the waistband. On her shiny brown hair was perched a snappy new hat.

Her face was framed by an enormous collar of rose fox fur that the couturiers sometimes referred to as blue. It was the color of the blue grass of Kentucky, or, more aptly, the mellow brownstone of so many old New York houses, and eminently becoming to the clear-skinned young Ann, who looked lovely.

So thought the merchandise manager, Paul Bradley, as he was about to step into his limousine at the curb in front of the store.

Ann had called by the employees' entrance, but turned into the Avenue in search of a taxicab. None was in sight.

"Appalling!" thought Ann. "My clothes will be ruined. Her eyes lit on the shiny black foreign car.

How lucky some people were! A man was looking at her, with admiration in his eyes.

"Good heavens! It was the merchandise manager," and she was leaving the store ahead of all the other employees!

He was coming towards her. To Bernice? Not possibly to offer her a lift?

"Jump in. I'll drive you to wherever you're going," he said masterfully. She was so surprised that she didn't even say "thank you."

But once in the elegantly fitted interior, she found her voice. "The nearest subway. Three blocks west," she said to the chauffeur's back.

"No. You'll get drenched. I'll take you direct."

Between Madison and Park, on the south side of 54th street, I can't remember the number.

"Go ahead, Charles." The chauffeur closed the glass partition.

They shot up the Avenue, while the rain beat against the windows and swished under the balloon tires.

"This isn't real!" thought Ann, who was perfectly accustomed to luxurious cars, but not to her escort. It was too amazing! Here she was, alone with the merchandise manager!

It was essential to say something. Not sit there in this comfort like a dumb fool.

In her nervousness, the most banal remark slipped from her. "It's a fine day for the ducks!"

"But not for the cats—"

Ha! The Ice Carnival?

He knew it had been she, then? Remembered her stupid jokes? and his reply—"Cats hate having cold water thrown on them."

She turned to him a perfectly blank face.

All very well to flirt at a masked party, but outside of that, better watch one's step.

Yet her heart sang with excitement, and his nearness, and the fleeting opportunity of getting to know him better.

"That's a remarkably pretty hat." (He was human, then? She could see it in the strip of mirror to the left of him).

"You got it in the store?" He was as nervous as she was, and annoyed at himself because of it.

"No, Paris." (Hadin't it cost the equivalent of two weeks of her present salary? Couldn't he see it?)

"It becomes you."

She remembered his first injunction—"one can't bring one's elegance into a department store."

It was on the tip of her tongue to inform him that her elegance was labeled with prettier names than "Barclay & Wells," but decided that impertinence, however apropos, would get her nowhere with the merchandise manager.

"Miss Shellfish informs me you're doing nicely."

She had a dreadful impulse to fling back at him: "Why! The jolly old crab!"

But a sense of humor didn't seem to be his strong point. She said demurely: "That's awfully nice of her. She's a kind person. I'm enjoying my work."

"The store dance will be the eighteenth of December."

"Oh, I hadn't heard about it."

"But you like dancing?"

"I'm mad as hell," said Ann. "It will be given at the same hotel, as usual."

"It must be quite an undertaking. Who is in charge?"

"We have a floor committee, but Miss Selz and I handle the arrangements," he told her.

So? The sultry Brenda?

The car skidded turning into 54th street off the Avenue, flinging Ann against his shoulder. He put a quick arm around her.

"It's okay. Don't be afraid."

For a blissful second she smelled a twined to which clung the faint aroma of tobacco, and was it hair tonic? A masculine odour that was fascinating, thought Ann. The car righted itself.

"Here's the place. The one with the funny sign."

He tapped on the glass partition, signalling the chauffeur, who pulled in to the right. The painted pink porker grinned down on them idiotically.

A commissionaire with a huge umbrella splashed forward to assist Ann.

But Paul Bradley was before him, helping her out in the rain.

"Would you like to come in for a little?" Ann asked dubiously, as the trio stopped in the foyer.

"Why, I've been here before." A curious look came over his face. It seemed to say: "What on earth are you doing here?"

A vast babel of voices came from inside.

Then suddenly the door flew open, and there was Bernice, radiant in sapphire velvet. Her eyes widened at sight of Paul Bradley. She beamed, held out her hands to him exclaiming: "So it's you again! Come on in! I'm delighted!"

Paul Bradley declined Bernice's invitation—none too agreeably, it seemed to Ann.

Neither girl had time to explain to him that it was a hospital benefit. With a quick negative, he was out across the sidewalk, into his car, and off.

"Of all the rude creatures!" Bernice made a disappointed face. "And we're so darned short of men!" She stared at her sister. "He's a handsome devil, isn't he? I suppose you picked him up at the Skating Carnival?"

"He's our merchandise manager," said Ann. She felt resentful with both Paul Bradley and Bernice—for the latter's warm greeting of him, so familiar, and at his curt departure.

Also the fact that he imagined she frequented such places as "The Laughing Pig" annoyed her. Why hadn't she told him in the car that she was going to a charity affair?

"A what-did-you-call-him?" Bernice asked sharply.

"A merchandise manager. In our store."

"Ho! A shopman?" with incredulous disdain. "He seemed a cut above that, to me," and giving Ann no time to argue, she pushed back into the restaurant and the crowd.

Ann followed, paid her two dollars entrance at the secretary's desk, was greeted by innumerable friends.

"Well named a barnyard, isn't it?" came the mocking voice of Claire, the eternal cigarette dangling.

"Dumb clucks!" said Captain de Freyn.

"Good God! Nothing dumb about 'em! Raucous!"—from Freddy.

It was the usual New York party of its kind, becoming more and more hectic by the minute.

Bernice's gown was repeatedly baptized by jerky hands, until—said Freddy wittily remarked—one had only to wring it out to have a brand-new cocktail he would name "blue velvet" or "sweet sapphire!"

"Curious," thought Ann, "how people imagine they are funny when they're tight! Or am I becoming a prude?"

Gordon arrived.

She had broken her date to dine with him on the evening of the day Renita Parrish had found them in the fitting salon at the store. Unknown to her, Bernice had asked him to this cocktail party.

Ann was put out.

Not that she disliked Gordon Gavin. Far from it. But, realizing his feeling for her, she wanted to discourage it.

She was sorry for him. Sorry, too, for Renita Parrish, who was in love with the boy.

But there was nothing she could do about it, except see as little of Gordon as was possible.

As they worked under the same roof, daily, it wasn't easy to avoid him.

Renita was making it rather awkward for her in the store. Not knowing the meaning of the word reticence, Renita spread it about that Ann had "come between" her and the good-looking young copywriter in the Advertising— that they had been on the verge of an engagement—indeed, there was an understanding—until Ann's advent!

"By many, then, she was labelled 'man-snatcher.'"

There were ways of getting this to the ears of the merchandise manager!

This Beauty Secret Comes From a Doctor

Most women don't need beauty parlors. Your own doctor will tell you that. Low complexion and pimply skins are rarely matters for cosmetics. Because most skin blemishes are aggravated by constipation.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, during his years of practice, treated hundreds of women for constipation and frequently noted remarkable improvement in their appearance. He used a purely vegetable compound—Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. This laxative is gentle, yet peculiarly effective because it increases the bile flow without shocking the intestinal system. Racket Witnesses Given Protection
CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—Special police details last night guarded the homes of two state witnesses in the trial of Don A. Campbell and John E. McGee, labor leaders charged with collecting $1,200 from a restaurant chain executive under threat of delaying construction work.

It was disclosed today that Safety Director Eliot Ness had ordered the police details at the homes of Joseph E. Vanis, head of the Vanis Builders Supply & Lumber Co., and Robert E. Fowler, president of the Cleveland Window Cleaning Co.

Vanis has testified that he paid Campbell $45 to "get straightened out" after a window was smashed in his office.

Defense counsel today planned to cross-examine Fowler, who testified McGee told him "two per cent of the cost" of the Cleveland union terminal was "paid to various people."

The statement was made, Fowler said, when McGee demanded $800 after obtaining a cleaning contract for Fowler's concern from a grocery store chain.

PUBLIC SCHOOL BILL APPROVED

Committee Recommends Federal Grants To Improve Schools

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—President transmitted to congress today a report of the advisory committee on education recommending new federal grants of $855,000,000 to states during the next six years to improve their public schools.

The grants, to begin a year hence at $70,000,000, would be increased approximately $30,000,000 each of the two following years and $20,000,000 each year thereafter until they reach $190,000,000 in 1944-45. These grants would be in addition to the permanently authorized federal grants of more than $50,000,000 a year for vocational education.

Mr. Roosevelt appointed the committee in 1935 under the chairmanship of Floyd W. Reeves of the University of Chicago.

The committee found: "The public school system in the United States greatly needs improvement. Glaring inequalities characterize educational opportunities at all expenditures for schools throughout the nation."

"Federal aid is the only way in which the difficulties in this widespread and complex situation can be adequately corrected."

Among the more significant recommendations were proposals that pupils of parochial and other non-public schools share to a limited extent in the grants.

Part of the general aid fund, it said, should be sent in such schools for textbooks and reading materials, transportation of pupils, scholarships for pupils 16 to 19 years of age, and for health and welfare services.

LOUIS RISKS TITLE IN FIGHT WITH MANN TONIGHT

NEAR SELLOUT CROWD TO SEE TITLE BATTLE

Louis Held 3-1 Favorite But Anything Liable To Happen

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Anything, or practically nothing, can happen at Madison Square Garden tonight when Joe Louis exposes his heavy-weight title for a maximum of 15 rounds against Natie Mann, a rugged, resolute young fighter from Connecticut.

Mann, a good right-hand puncher, might lay one on the big Negro's chin and pick up the marbles. On the other hand, the betting is about 3 to 1 that the affair will run true to form, that Louis either will knock Natie kicking or slice him up like a Virginia ham.

With the house scaled from a $16.50 top, prospects were for a near-sellout with gross receipts of better than $100,000.

It is, in some respects, one of the strangest heavyweight title bouts on record. Nobody appeared to take much notice until the last few days.

There has been little ballyhoo, partly because of a brooding uncertainty in the minds of the fight writers. The story first went around that Louis would "lend" his championship to Mann for a time, relieving himself of the necessity of fighting Max Schmeling next June.

But the best belief now is that they are going at it dead on the level tonight, and that if Mann does score an improbable victory he will have to do it the hard way.

Mann, who is about three inches under the Bomber's six feet, two inches and weighs a dozen pounds less, hasn't dropped a fight in 15 months, his most notable win in that period a ten-round decision over Bob Pastor.

Mann figures to hit plenty, and everything depends upon whether he can absorb Joe's blasts and ask for more.

There's no thought in Mann's mind, or anyone's else, that he can outbox the rangy young champion for 15 rounds. Mann doesn't think any fighter has given Louis' body a real testing. He's going to throw that real test.

GRADE LEAGUE QUINTETS TIED

Three Teams Hold First Place In Mickey McGuire Loop

Continuing their tie for first place in the third round of the Mickey McGuire Basketball league for grade school teams, Prospect, Reilly and McKinley won games at the Memorial building yesterday. Each team made its Washington's birthday victory the second of the third round, which opened last Saturday.

Prospect was given a close battle by Columbia, but managed to squeeze out a 23 to 20 win. Reilly took the measure of St. Paul, 12 to 9, and McKinley walloped Fourth St., 14 to 4.

Prospect won the first round championship of the grade league, while McKinley captured the second round title. These two teams and the winner of the third round will engage in a play-off for the season's championship.

MULLINS QUINT BEATS DODGERS IN LEAGUE TILT

Bodymakers Nose Out Althouse Team to Tie For Lead

The battle for the second half championship of the Class A City Basketball league was a deadlocked affair today following Mullins' 32 to 30 victory over the Althouse Dodgers in a bitterly-fought contest at the Memorial building gym last night.

The defeat dropped the Dodgers into a tie for first place with Mullins. The Althouse quint has won three of its four second half games, while the Bodymakers have won four out of five.

Mullins came from behind in the second half to gain the victory after trailing by four points, 19 to 15, at halftime. The Bodymakers outscored the Dodgers seven points to five in the third period and nine points to six in the final frame.

The Althouse cagers gained their halftime lead in the second period by outscoring Mullins, 11 points to seven. The two teams battled on even terms in the first frame, each scoring eight points.

Heated action in the contest resulted in two players—Charlie McCloskey of Mullins and Al Callos of the Dodgers—being ousted for roughness.

Mike Linder and Cliff Greenisen led Mullins in scoring, the former tallying 10 points and the latter eight. Bob Chappell hooped five field goals and two free throws to lead the Dodgers in scoring with 12 points.

A scheduled Class A game between the Columbians and Moose was won by the Columbians on a forfeit.

Krauss Heels and Demings gained victories in Class B games, the former trouncing the Columbian "B" quintet, 35 to 27, and the latter walloping the Christians, 33 to 21.

Neither game had any bearing on the Class B second half race, which involves Reich Trojans, Whit's Garage and the Methodists.

The three Class B leaders have each won five games and lost one. Dick Eakin paced the Krauss Heels to their victory over the Columbians, scoring 14 points on seven field goals. Allen starred in Demings' victory by making five field goals and one free throw for 11 points.

Young Corbett Defeats Uncrowned Champ In Coast Battle

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 23.—San Francisco's biggest boxing upset in years today left Young Corbett, Fresno's ageing southpaw, a 10-round victor over Fred Apostoli, uncrowned middleweight king who was a 2½ to 1 favorite to wallop his idol.

Corbett, who won and lost the world welterweight title while Apostoli still was an amateur, took five rounds of yesterday's outdoor battle; Apostoli battered his way to a pair; three were even.

The Fresno, his right eye closed and his mouth and nose battered, appeared near the end of his resistance in a punishing tenth round. Referee Toby Irwin awarded him the decision.

After the fight Apostoli's manager, Larry White, groaned: "We was robbed. We gave Corbett the fight to help the old man earn a few dollars and this is what happens. How Irwin ever reached his decision is beyond me."

Said Corbett: "I was surprised at Freddie's lack of power."

Apostoli, recent winner over Marcel Thil of France and Middleweight Champion Fred Steele in a non-title bout, was virtually unscathed.

Corbett is 33 and Apostoli 24. Corbett weighed 160 pounds to 159½ for Apostoli.

Earl Sande Looks Toward Victory In Big Handicap

Famous Jockey Trains Howard Horse For Annual Santa Anita Race; Wins Tuesday Derby

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 23.—Winner of the $50,000 Santa Anita derby, the Maxwell Howard Racing stable, run by turfdom's famous Earl Sande, set quietly about the task today of trying to ring up a victory in Santa Anita's other rich event—the $100,000 handicap. The Earl, once America's premier jockey and now trainer for the wealthy Dayton paper manufacturer, added Stagehand for his smashing triumph in the derby yesterday—a race that saw Dauber run second, Sun Egret third, Legal Light fourth and such big names as Tiger, Sir Raleigh and Can't Wait finish out of the money.

Now Sande has Sceneshifter, full brother of the flashy black Stagehand, groomed to stage into the handicap March 5. Stagehand was nominated for the mile and one-quarter grind, but Sande indicated he might give the colt a rest before getting him ready for a fling at the Kentucky Derby.

Stagehand's win yesterday thrilled the 52,000 spectators who wagered a record $239,746 on the outcome and $1,370,807 on the entire program of eight races. Jockey Jack Westrope was aboard the winner.

The Methodists and Baptists posted victories in two of the contests to remain tied for first place. The M. E. quint defeated the Trinity Lutherans, 30 to 27, while the Baptists trounced the Christians, 24 to 12.

In other games, the Columbians over the Presbyterians, 43 to 31, and the Junior Trojans won over the Emmanuel Lutherans, 23 to 22.

still more we must not try to delude small, weak nations that they will be protected by the league against aggression. We know that nothing of the kind can be expected. The league is unable to provide collective security for anybody."

He denied hotly Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George's accusation of withholding an Italian telegram until Eden resigned last Sunday.

Did Nothing "Disgraceful"

Avowing he had done nothing "disgraceful," Chamberlain said he merely had learned of the telegram's import from a friend of the Italian ambassador, Count Dino Grandi. He told the cabinet of its purport, acceptance of the British formula for removing foreign volunteers from Spain, but said he did not get the telegram itself until Monday.

Eden declared he had no "official intimation" of the Italian government's capitulation on this point until after he resigned, but that it would have made no difference in his decision to quit. Eden had demanded withdrawal of the volunteers as a preliminary point before beginning any Italian friendship conversations.

Protest Pension

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Senator Walsh (D., Mass.) protested today as "entirely unwarranted" a proposed $5,000 annual government pension for the widow of President Harrison.

The proposed pension for Mrs. Mary Lord Harrison of New York, Walsh said, "presents an unanswerable argument for pensions to all widows."

Lost In Traffic

CHICAGO — Louis Holland, 28, asked police to help him find Marvin Seddon, 26.

The young men lost each other in traffic while driving new cars from Detroit to their home in Ogden, Utah. Seddon was carrying all the expense money.

Theater Attractions

Outdoor Drama

An outdoor drama based on the colorful war between the ranchers and the miners of California in the 1870's, "Gold Is Where You Find It," is an adaptation for the screen of Clements' Ripley's best selling novel of the same name which ran serially in the Cosmopolitan magazine.

During this period the wealthy but unorganized wheat ranchers were fighting desperately against the big financial interests which were running the hydraulic mines.

COURT ACTION LOOMS AS SNAG

Senate Committee Facing
Temporary Disruption
Of Proceedings

"If we have to spend all our time in court we'll not be able to get anything more done."

Chairman J. Ralph Sneider of the committee asserted "we naturally will oppose release of the transcript to the governor's attorneys."

Sneider once authorized the stenographers to give Charles S. Druggan, the governor's attorney, a copy of Bradley's testimony, and then rescinded the authorization. He said he thought the attorney was trying to impede the inquiry.

"Anyway," Sneider asserted, "we report to the senate only."

Some committee members feared the impending court fight over the transcript would deprive them of the time in which to complete Bradley's testimony before the habeas corpus hearing. Common Pleas Judge John R. King was to decide at the hearing whether Bradley should be turned over to officers from East Cleveland.

After a day of introducing correspondence designed to support Bradley's testimony that he toured many states seeking financial support from utility companies for Davey in 1934, the committee planned to turn next to other "documents" which the witness said would substantiate his assertions that Davey bargained with manufacturers for campaign contributions.

Letter Put In Record

The committee created a stir when it placed into the record what Senator Metcalf termed a "vicious" letter written by Bradley to Davey on June 15, 1934.

The committee declined to release the text of the letter for publication after Bradley, upon advice of his attorney, asked the investigators to withhold it.

The letter was written in Kansas City after Bradley had been censured, he said, by Davey and R. E. Burger, vice president of the Henry L. Doherty Co. in New York, for sending Burger a telegram which they considered indiscreet.

Bradley said the telegram related to business he arranged for the Davey Tree Export Co. of Kent, O., with subsidiaries of the Doherty company.

To support Davey in his campaign for governor, Bradley testified, he paved the way for the utilities to make contributions or to give a large amount of tree-trimming business to the Davey company.

Bradley said Davey telephoned him he was about to lose considerable tree-trimming business because of Bradley's telegram. He said it required 30 days "to straighten the situation out."

Displays Impatience

In the letter of June 15, 1934, Bradley displayed impatience over waiting for Burger to act on a proposal and wrote: "The time to act is now. They can't hold this up until Aug. 14 (date of the primary election). If you are defeated, we will be left high and dry. . . . The time to bring this to an issue is right now when we have them in a corner."

Bradley told the committee that Wendell Wilkie, president of the Commonwealth & Southern Corp., in compliance with an agreement made with Davey and himself in New York, gave him the names of heads of subsidiaries and authorized him to use Wilkie's name in calling upon them.

Then, Bradley said in a purported letter to Davey Wilkie became frightened and "called off his men from giving us business."

He said he proceeded to prepare "for any flareup" Wilkie "might try," he added that he "got evidence and like Cities Service. I had him nailed to the cross."

In New York yesterday Wilkie described Bradley's testimony as "pure bunk."

Discussing his contacts with Cities Service, Bradley said he was to get a cent a gallon on gasoline sold by the company to the state.

As his plow turned the earth, it cut a guide wire to a telephone pole. The pole fell, fracturing Stoner's skull.

Ohioan Second In Cherry Pie Stakes

CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—Mary E. Wien, comely 20-year-old Purdue university coed, looked forward today to a visit with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt at Washington—a privilege of the national cherry pie baking championship.

After looking over the pies baked by eight contestants yesterday the national cherry week committee decided Miss Wien's was the best. The trip to Washington, $100 and the national championship constituted her reward.

Miss Wien is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Wien, who live on a farm near Lafayette, Ind. She and her mother were scheduled to meet the nation's first lady at noon tomorrow.

Eleanor Enos, 16, of Clyde, O., won second place and $50 in the contest. Third prize, went to Anna Elle Jones, 18, of St. Joseph, Mich.

Seiberling Named Board's Chairman

AKRON, Feb. 23.—Frank A. Seiberling, 78-year-old dean of rubber industry executives relinquished his duties as president of the Seiberling Rubber Co. today to become chairman of the board.

J. Penfield Seiberling, his son, former assistant to the president and vice president in charge of sales, succeeded the veteran, Col. J. L. Cochran, assistant sales manager, became vice president in charge of sales.

Seiberling founded the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. in 1898 on borrowed capital of $3,500. He stepped out of Goodyear in 1921 and established the concern bearing his name.

Rotarians Hear Debate

Salem High school debaters entertained Rotary club members at their meeting Tuesday in the Memorial building by discussing, in a most creditable manner, the merits of a unicameral legislature.

Upholding the affirmative were Elsie Hunter and William Stevens. Negative arguments were delivered by Lionel Difford and Constance Clark. Excellent delivery as well as preparation of their subject brought favorable comments from the club members.

The debaters were introduced by their teacher, J. C. Guiler. The program was arranged by T. E. Miller.

Shots Arouse Neighborhood

Several shots rang out in the dark last night, a woman's cries pierced the serene atmosphere of E. Seventh st., and an automobile without lights sped eastward.

A good setting for a murder story, but police, called to the Seventh st. vicinity by residents, could find neither a possible victim, nor the slayers.

However, several persons living on the street insisted that shots were fired. And, they assured the officers, it wasn't just an automobile backfire.

"Goodbye to Edith", Slayer's Last Words

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Feb. 23.—Clifford Hawkins, 26-year-old farm hand who killed two brothers because they objected to his intimacy with their 13-year-old sister, was hanged at state prison here early today.

"As for myself," Hawkins said within hearing of the 103 spectators, "all I have to say is: 'goodbye Edith.'"

Edith Grimm was the Mount Vernon, Wash., farm girl with whom Hawkins was enamored and over whom he said he slew her brothers, Ernest and Floyd.

Anthony Eden, who has resigned as Foreign Minister in England, is pictured as he left Eustis for Birmingham, England, where he spoke before the Junior Imperial League. A few days later, on the heels of Hitler's speech to the Reichstag, Eden quit. He is pictured hiding his face from the cameraman.

Suggests Tariff Policy Be Scrapped

DES MOINES, Ia., Feb. 23.—Col. Frank Knox' proposal that the Republican party scrap its traditional high tariff policy and broaden the base of campaign contributions stirred speculation today.

The 1935 Republican vice presidential candidate reiterated his views on the party's tariff policy in an address to the Iowa Republican Washington birthday dinner last night.

He criticized equally the "excessively high tariff of industry and crop control payments to the farmer, and said he was satisfied agriculture would be willing to forego its "special privilege" provided industry would do likewise.

"It is sheer political suicide," the Chicago newspaper publisher said, "for the Republican party to continue to sponsor and support a system of indirect subsidies to industry—which is exactly what a system of excessively high tariffs is—and at the same time deny to the farmer his demand for compensating subsidy to his business."

"I do not favor government subsidies for anyone," he declared.

Broadcast Rites Honoring Bishop

CLEVELAND, Feb. 23.—Radio station WHK will broadcast tonight at 8:15 E. S. T. a program in observance of the 27th anniversary of the consecration of Bishop Joseph Schrembs of the Cleveland Catholic diocese.

The prelate officiated at a low mass yesterday, the anniversary date, at St. Paul's shrine.

Ruth Parks, organist, will play musical compositions written of Bishop Schrembs as a feature of the broadcast tonight. Msgr. Floyd L. Begin, Diocesan secretary, will speak.

Needs More Figures

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Secretary Perkins suggested today that labor, industry and government needed more figures before they could successfully attack the problem of how to find more jobs for workers over 45.

"None of the studies made so far appears to get at the cause of the problem," Miss Perkins said, in an address prepared for a committee she appointed to consider a solution.

Fire Kills Three

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 23.—Three men were killed and 18 persons injured by fire which swept the mining village of Maguarichic, Chihuahua state, yesterday.

ICKES ASSAILS TWO ARCH FOES

"To my way of thinking Fascism is a retrograde movement. It means a turning back of the hands of the clock. It means that liberty to live one's life must be surrendered to a dictatorial power."

America, Ickes asserted, escaped dictatorship of concentrated wealth but still is threatened by "economic royalists."

"Here in America," he said, "the economic depression struck in 1929 there were men who yearned for a dictatorship. And . . . those who were willing to accept a Fascist form of government, those who even went so far as to suggest one, were not the lowly of the land nor even its average citizens."

Would Sacrifice Liberties

"They were of those who, possessing wealth and economic power and social prestige, were willing to sacrifice the liberties of America in order that they might cling just a little longer to their wealth and power."

"In many regards, the British conservative of 1938 would be denounced as a dangerous red in a country (the United States) that boasts itself to be the most politically free, the most forward looking of all the countries of the world."

"Our economic royalists, supported by the reactionary section of our press, by political die-hards and by those who from the beginning have exploited not only the natural but the human resources of our country, are a heavy drag to the wheels of our progress."
